The Burning Shed

It was a cold night and Fireman Amin was sitting by the fire place eating his dinner, Lamb casserole with mash potatoes, yummy! He lived in a small house next to the Sun Town Fire Station.

“Alhamdulillah that was a delicious meal!” exclaimed Fireman Amin as he wiped his mouth with a towel “Now I am going to pray Salat-ul-Esha and go to sleep inshaAllah”.

He went out of his house to the Sun Town Masjid. It was a beautiful one with blue and white walls. Fireman Amin went and done his Wudu where he met his friend PC Yusuf, the town Police officer.

“Assalamualyikum Yusuf” said Fireman Amin

“Wa’alykumussalam” replied PC Yusuf rolling up sleeves “How are you doing?”

“Alhamdulillah I am fine” replied Fireman Amin “I saw you taking Billy the crook to the station today”. Everybody knew Billy the crook. He was very bad and would often steal from other people. That day he tried to steal fruits from the groceries but PC Yusuf saw him and took him to jail.

“Yes Billy is in jail” PC Yusuf sighed “I hope he learns from his mistakes”. The Imam of the Masjid, Imam Ayyub began the Salah. He had a beautiful voice which Fireman Amin really liked. It reminded him of Masjid Al-Haram in Makkah!

After the Salah, Fireman Amin and PC Yusuf were ready to go home when Danny the school teacher came running up to them.

“The...The school shed is on fire!” he yelled “I was going to the school to get my bag which I left there this afternoon and saw the shed up in flames”.

“Right” said a determined Fireman Amin “I’ll go and get my fire engine”

“And I’ll get my police car” added PC Yusuf “Need to find out how it happened”. Fireman Amin went to the fire station to get his red fire engine and PC Yusuf went to get the Police car. They both turned on their sirens and sped down Sun Town Lane. Many people were looking out of their windows, excited by the blue flashing lights. Amongst them was little Sami who was Fireman Amin’s nephew. He called out to his mum

“Look mum Uncle Amin is driving his fire brigade again” as his mum joined him at the window.

Fireman Amin arrived in front of the school with PC Yusuf, who was just behind him. There was a huge fire on the school shed, which Jonny the school caretaker was trying to put out with buckets full of water. He then came over to Fireman Amin, looking very upset.

“My kittens are in the shed” he cried “Please get them out”.

“Don’t worry Jonny” assured Fireman Amin taking out the hose from the fire engine “I’ll save them inshaAllah”. The flames were getting bigger as Fireman Amin turned on his hose. He sprayed the water on the fire, but it was not going down. PC Yusuf and Jonny looked on. Mr. Hashim the Sweet shop owner joined them.

“That’s a big fire that is” he began “I wonder how it happened”.

“I’ll be looking into that” said PC Yusuf. The fire was slowly going down when suddenly the water stopped coming out from the hose.

“Oh no!” cried Fireman Amin holding the hosepipe which had water dripping out “I need to fill up my tank, I need more water”. Mr. Hashim had an idea. There was a water tap on the front of his shop, which he often used to clean his window.

“You can use this Fireman Amin” Mr. Hashim called out. Fireman Amin then filled up water in his engine from the water tap.

“Oh my kittens” cried Jonny holding his head

“Nearly done Jonny” said Fireman Amin as he continued to extinguish the fire. Very soon the fire began to go down and disappeared. Fireman Amin then entered the shed and found the kittens.

“Come here” he said gently picking the kittens up one by one, which were in one corner of the shed. There were three altogether!

“My kittens” cried Jonny “Thank you Fireman Amin!”

“You’re welcome” said Fireman Amin looking pleased “All thanks to Allah they are well”.

Meanwhile PC Yusuf had done a little investigation to find out that the fire started from a small camp fire next to the shed. By the campfire was an empty packet of crisps and an old coat.

“I know who that belongs to” began PC Yusuf picking up the coat “Billy the Crook. He seems to have escaped from jail”. Oh no!
